Attracting birds to your garden

Abstract

Gardening for birds is both a great way to help our endangered feathered friends as well as a great pleasure in itself. This book offers a host of practical suggestions on feeding birds and providing opportunities for nesting and bathing. The reader is taken through the steps of planning a bird-friendly garden covering aspects such as pond construction, suitable plants, provision of nesting sites and food, pest control and garden maintenance. A directory of 80 common species aids identification and offers guidelines on the habitat, food and nesting requirements of each species.

Item Type: Book

Subjects:
- G Geography. Anthropology. Recreation > GV Recreation Leisure
- Q Science > Q Science (General)
- Q Science > QH Natural history > QH301 Biology
- Q Science > QL Zoology

Divisions: College of Liberal Arts

Date Deposited: 21 Dec 2015 13:13

Last Modified: 29 Apr 2016 13:30

Request a change to this item or report an issue

Update item (repository staff only)

---

One good reason for attracting backyard birds to your garden is that they eat lots of garden pests. Identifying wild birds in your backyard is an art but easy when you know how. See the videos on various aspects of bird identification. We should encourage backyard birds to visit our gardens and homesteads as they eat up to garden pests a day that harm our orchards and homestead crops. So how do we do that? The Importance of Backyard Birds. First of all, we should look at what backyard birds do in the world? This is an important question for us to think about. Think of what the birds are doing...