The fifth section looks at "legal and ethical frontiers". John Robertson looks at the potential impact of the HGP on procreative "liberty". The questions in law that need to be answered include whether carrier status information should be shared, whether there should be limits on abortions for genetic indications, and the use of preimplantation genetic diagnosis. Rebecca Eisenberg looks at the question of patent rights, on processes and sequences, an area that lawyers and policy makers must decide on. The chapter was written before the international controversy over patent
